A Nice Legislature.

The Nebraska Legislature appears to be composed of a set of regular old-fashioned backwoodsmen. On the 3d inst., the members of the Assembly having each received forty dollars, bought a lot of champagne, and got on a regular "bender." After the liquor had all been disposed of, they returned to the hall to resume business, many of them so "dead drunk" that they could not sit upright on their seats. Soon a difficulty arose between the speaker and a gentleman, which commenced by a vigorous application of a cane to the back of the speaker, and was continued for some time, during which all the members who were adjacent to the fight.

The above paragraph—whether true or not, in its statements, of course we cannot say—is going the rounds of the press. It is not likely that it is altogether false, and for the sake of justice, decency, and the reputation of republican institutions, one is reluctant to believe that it can be wholly true.

But, suppose the representations made in the above extract to be only one-half or one-quarter true; what a disgraceful picture is presented of the sovereign law-givers of Nebraska territory! It is not needful to inquire into the political sentiments of those brilliant legislators, for no possible political bias, nor amount of party service in any direction or capacity, could qualify such creatures for the wise and proper discharge of legislative duties.

And what sort of laws do the people of that extensive territory expect these drunken, fighting gentry to enact for their benefit? What sort of legislation relative to schools and colleges—to the financial affairs of their local government—to the judicial, municipal, and charitable interests and policy of their territorial organization?—Alas, if they look for anything wise, prudent and patriotic, anything with a truly intelligent and statesmanlike forecast, that shall tend to the moral and material growth and prosperity of the commonwealth, how miserably must they be disappointed! And all this, because of the choice of unfit law-makers.

There are few things, perhaps, more habitually and extensively inculcated in this country, than obedience to the laws. Upon such obedience, as a general rule, depends the vitality and efficiency of our institutions; and it is no vain boasting to say that we are mainly and emphatically a law-abiding people. But certain war-oracles are often heard to say that "all legislative enactments are equally binding," and that unhesitating and unquestioning obedience is in all cases the duty of every citizen. Every man who is capable of perceiving that twice two make four, must see if he will allow himself to reflect a moment that such over-wise oracles are greatly mistaken; and we should think the picture of the Nebraska Assembly, drawn in the extract at the head of this article, might help some people to a more just and reasonable appreciation of what is sometimes most erroneously and foolishly called "law."

Who THE DEUCE WAS IT?—Brown tells a Vermont story which, he says, is as authentic as the best of the Post anecdotes, and certainly nothing more can be required. A respectable gentleman in Windsor county, many years ago, had an ambition to represent his town in the State legislature. Though a man of good character, and every way able enough for the office he sought, he happened, as Aunt Peggy used to say, to have "a great many winning ways to make folks hate him," and was the most unpopular man in town. Going to Squire X., an influential man who happened to be friendly to him, he laid his case before him and asked his influence; saying that he didn't expect help without paying for it, and declaring that if he could get X.'s influence he was sure to be elected. The Squire put in his best jumps for him, but when the ballot-box was turned, another man was declared elected. The disappointed candidate called out to know how the votes stood, and learned that he had got just three votes! "But I don't understand it," said he, turning to the Squire with a chap-fallen countenance. "Not I either," said the Squire, "I put in my vote, you put in another; but who the d— put in the third is more than I can imagine."—Boston Post.

The London Times, in an able article on the power of the Press, says that the potency of a newspaper lies in the fact that it is a newspaper, and not a sheet of tales and essays like the French journals. "The public press," says the Times, "has purchased its right to express its opinion by the facilities which it has given every man for forming his own." As to the favor which the press can confer, the Times says, "What is the Red Eagle, or the Legion of Honor, to a paragraph of praise which is repeated in hundreds of daily, weekly and monthly sheets, and makes some humble name a household word from Cornwall to Shetland, in Toronto and Melbourne, in Calcutta and Hong Kong."

"I never complained of my condition," says the Boston post, "until I was told that my feet were bare and I had no money to buy shoes; but I met a man without feet, and was contented with my lot."

LOCAL NEWS.

Tremendous Excitement in Thames Street Butchery in Cold Blood in Blooded Daylight, under the Shadow of the Police!

Thames Street was the scene of considerable excitement yesterday morning about 10 o'clock, caused by the refractory movements of a bull, who was as unreasonable as to object to being taken to the slaughterhouse. The first we saw of his bullship was in front of our office, where, all other means of forcing him to propel having failed, he was made fast, by a rope attached to his horns, to the tail of a passing coal cart, and the team of three horses started on. The bull, however, remained fixed in his determination not to go, and bawling himself on all fours steadily realized every effort of the strong horses to move him forward. By this time a crowd had collected, and several evinced their readiness to "bet on the bull." The animal was jerked to the ground and "barked his shins," but still maintained his resistance, till some of the bystanders commenced belaboring his stern with sundry cudgels, thus opening a "fire in the rear" which induced him to move on, and the team passed up Thames Street, followed by the crowd.

The passage of this bull to the slaughterhouse, however, like the course of true love, was not destined to be smooth. They had not proceeded far, before the animal threw himself upon the ground and was dragged on his side up Thames Street above Aquidneck Engine House, where a halt was ordered, and a council of war held, and it being evident that the beast could not be got to the slaughterhouse "safe and sound," it was resolved to slaughter him then and there. Accordingly a man was despatched for the necessary implements, and soon returned, bearing a broad-axe and a huge butcher-knife, and in five minutes the poor animal's spunk was evaporating with his blood, upon the pavements. Thus placed hors du combat, he was ingloriously carted to the slaughterhouse in a coal-cart; and when this account reaches our readers, the parts and parcels of his stalwart frame will doubtless be smoking in savory steaks on their breakfast tables, a genuine article of  jerked beef.

We owe a debt of gratitude to the memory of his bullship, for having disturbed the monotony of life in Newport, and at the same time furnishing us with a local item. Therefore bite gently, ye who devour his flesh, remembering that it is the flesh of a fallen hero.

Court of Justices.

Friday, Oct. 20.
Benjamin S. Card, a long, lean, tank specimen of humanity, arrayed in the habiliments of a laborer, was brought in to answer to a charge of being indecently drunk. In reply to the usual interrogatory of the Court, Benjamin admitted that he was "intoxicated, though not so drunk as some." After a little deliberation, the Court assessed the damage at $5 and costs, to stand committed to the State's jail till paid.

"And how much are the costs?" quoth Benjamin, addressing the Court.

Judge Greene, with the prospect of an addition to the City funds looming up before his eyes, figured them up as five dollars and forty odd cents.

"And suppose I pay this, can I go."

He was assured by the Court that he could, whereupon he relapsed into a contemplative mood, which resulted in his seizing his cap and signifying his readiness to accept of quarters in the "Marlborough Street House," being prompted thereto by the dilapidated state of his finances. The Card being played out, and no further business presenting itself, the Court was adjourned "to meet again according to law."

FALL IN LUMBER.—Yesterday afternoon, a little after 1 o'clock, a team, heavily loaded with planks two inches thick, was passing up Thames Street, a short distance south of the City Hall, the teamster walking beside his team in fancied security, when the rope binding the load together slipped off on the near side, and down came half a dozen of the heavy planks with a crash to the pavements, one of them missing the head of the teamster about an inch, which was a lucky miss for him, as the weight of the plank and force of the fall was sufficient to have broken his skull. The teamster, to his credit be it said, did not curse and swear but quietly reloading the planks, continued his journey. Our local reporter was within two feet of the falling lumber, and within just that distance of another bruising before he had recovered from those received three weeks since in the harbor.

We are told that the eastern boundary of Thames Street was originally on a line with the Seminary building directly opposite our office. It is a great pity it was not adhered to, Thames Street, a hundred feet wide, would have presented one of the most magnificent avenues in the world. By the way, would it not be a good operation one of these days, to repave this street? Riding over a huge portion of it on a carriage now is like being in the harbor in a small boat in a heavy sea, only we should prefer the latter.

Election being over in Bismore, the malcontents of that city, now that their votes are not counted, are beginning to get a glow of justice. According to the American, the jail is thronged with prisoners to its fullest capacity; in some cases, fifteen to twenty being crowded into one room, about 20 feet square, in which they cook, eat and sleep.

There will be service in the Free-will Baptist meeting-house, corner Thames and South Baptist street, to-morrow. Rev. Jacob Harvey, pastor of the church, will preach morning and afternoon. Meeting in the evening.

The clerk of the weather changed his mind and the wind too, Thursday night, and yesterday morning greeted us with a raw east wind which whispered another storm brewing.

The barque Martha Anna sailed yesterday morning for Cuba.

The Late Prize Fight.

The following are amusing bits at the general interest which pervaded the community in reference to this disgraceful affair:

BRIDGET—Plaze ma'am, would yez give me my wages for the last two weeks, and the one to come?

MORRISSEY—Why, what's the matter, Bridget—what do you want money in advance for?

BRIDGET—Sure ma'am, I bet all me money on the Hanan Boy. That devil Patey told me he would dust the jacket of that bla-ay-a yard Morrissey the first blow.

TOMMY—Now, Eddy, give me them marbles you lost on the Ben-ne-kee Boy.

EDDY—Don't want to, ma'll whip me if I div em away.

TOMMY—That's a pretty way of treating a cove when he won on the fight.

CHARLEY—(Coming up suddenly)—Don't you div him the marbles, Eddy; it wasn't a fair fight; Ben-ne-kee Boy had a sore leg. (Eddy hangs on to the marbles.)

SAMBO—Cuff, whar's dem stakes?

CUFF—Dem stakes is safe, sar. Dar is a question on dem stakes.

SAMBO—Question, you common nigger! whar's de question? Giv me dem stakes.

CUFF—Taint possible, sar. Does'n't you see the telegraph report says dat Morrissey hit the Benicky Boy in de kidneys. You must go and see my lawyer, sar.

EVANGELINE—Mother, I have won the box of gloves!

MOTHER—Why, what's the news, dear? EVANGELINE—Why, see here in the papers. Your man's whipped! Benicia fell in the eleventh round, with a bit in the breadbasket, and an exaggerated "smell-er." Now, mother, I've won fairly—so give me the gloves.

MOTHER—You'll have to wait, love. Benicia wasn't fairly beat. If he hadn't fractured his hand in the first blow, he would have annihilated Morrissey.

REV. MR. GENTLEFACE—Well—you see—your man's whipped. Have you that surplus handy?

REV. MR. LAMBRETHS—Whipped? Yes, if you call that whipping where a man has a sore leg, a broken hand, and gets brutally maltreated in the—that is to say—kidneys.

GENTLEFACE—It don't matter, sir; I did not bet the new surplice on the abraded condition of Benicia's leg, the impossible-to-be-forseen accident to his hand, or the possible punching of his kidneys. My man has received enough on his face to satisfy you, it appears to me.

DOCTOR Q.—Well, Doc—fork—hand over—"stump up."

DOCTOR Z.—Stump! fork! what do you mean?

Q.—Benicia's burst up—that's what I mean. Hand over that order.

Z.—But—but Benicia met with an accident; he would have whipped Morrissey, if he had not hurt his hand.

Q.—I know that; that first blow would have made a subject of my man, if he had been hit. But he wasn't.

SHOULDER HITTER—Mrs. Squills, those stakes! Your man's smashed. Hand over.

Mrs. SQUILLS—The demoralizing effects of prize fights in general, upon little children, and editors in particular, is fearful. The man who sets such an example to a virtuous community, is just as guilty as though he done it his-self. On these high moral grounds, I repudiate—I won't pay. I will not so far forget my mission to society and myself as to set such a wicked example.

FRENCH FASHIONS.—A letter from Paris says:—"The materials for the coming season do not denote any decrease in the extravagance in toilet, which has been so remarkable for the last two years. The fabrics are gorgeous, the prices even higher, and the profusion of trimmings and decorations on the increase. What was once the great charm in a high damask toilet, simplicity, is now entirely lost sight of. Flounces and furbelows, laces, ribbons, jets, bugles, feathers and flowers, are all worn together, and without the discrimination of time and circumstances.

Those magnificent new black silks, which the looms of Lyon have sent us for the winter; those silks are so wide that only three breaths are necessary for the skirt. The texture is thick but very soft, and the prices not very moderate, varying from $12 to $13 per yard.

A lady in Mississippi sued a young man for damages to the amount of $10,000 for breach of promise of marriage, but the jury being married men, says a local paper, returned a verdict for only $10.

The oldest organized fire company in the United States, is said to be the Naumkeag, No. 8 of Salem, Mass., which was organized March, 1857.

A horse was sold in New Bedford recently, for fifty cents—he is intended for the rural districts.

DOUGLAS ON VERMONT.—I was born in Vermont in Yankee land; I was born in 1792 in Vermont, and the high mountains around me. I have the best of mountains of Vermont, where I grew up, and where I played in my childhood. I went up to visit them seven or eight years ago for the first time in twenty years. When I got there, they treated me very kindly. They invited me to the commencement of the College, placed me on the seats with their distinguished guests, and conferred upon me the degree of LL. D. In Latin, the same as they did on Old Hickory at Cambridge many years ago, and I give you my word and honor I understood just as much of the Latin as he did. When they got through conferring the honorary degrees, they called upon me for a speech; and I got up with my heart full and swelling with gratitude for their kindness, and I said to them: "My friends, Vermont is the most glorious spot on the face of this globe for a man to be born in, provided he emigrates when he is very young."—Speech on the Stump in Illinois.

LONG FACES SHORTENED.—It is an error to think that a long face is essential to good morals, or that laughing is an unpardonable crime.

And yet how many there are who act as if they thought so. Some men go through life with a countenance so gloomy, that one would suppose the world nothing but a waste, howling wilderness, instead of a beautiful creation God has made it. From their sad and repulsive looks, you would certainly infer that it was the greatest of all sins to enjoy anything of the abundance which our kind Father above has so liberally given us to enjoy.

There is no religion in a sanctimonious face, nor is there any sin in a laugh. Those who choose can think so, but as for us we intend to laugh and grow fat, and we believe in so doing we shall please God better than in wearing a sad and disfigured countenance, such as the Saviour said was worn by the self-righteous, hypocritical Pharisees of old.—Boston Olive Branch.

DIED.
